

Deaf Culture Question of the Week – Nov 15-19, 2011
Bill Newell, Principal Washington School for the Deaf

Which college for deaf and hard-of-hearing students opened its doors in 1968?

- a. Gallaudet changed from a college to a university
- b. California State University at Northridge (CSUN)
- c. Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf (SWCID)
- d. National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID)

Scroll down for the answer.

Answer “d” - National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID). NTID opened its doors in 1968 to the first class of deaf and hard of hearing students to attend this college as part of the Rochester Institute of Technology.

Read the history of NTID here: http://www.rit.edu/overview/history_ntid.html

Note: All previous issues of DCQW are archived at the Washington School for the Deaf website: <http://www.wsd.wa.gov>