Accreditation Is Continuous Improvement

Cognia defines continuous improvement as "an embedded behavior rooted in an institution's culture that constantly focuses on conditions, processes, and practices to improve teaching and learning." Accreditation is a continuous improvement process that helps an institution improve teaching and learning. Using Cognia's Performance Standards, the institution examines its current effectiveness as well as its capacity and capability to achieve its vision and goals for the future.

Cognia believes all institutions can improve no matter how well they are currently performing. In the same manner that educators are expected to understand the unique needs of every learner and tailor the education experience to drive student success, every institution must be empowered to map out and embrace their unique improvement journey. Cognia expects institutions to use the results and analyses of data from diverse sources to select and implement actions that drive improvement in education quality and student performance. Cognia recognizes that each institution's improvement journey is unique, and that we can serve you best by providing key findings specific to your institution.

Around the turn of the 21st century, accreditation transformed its focus and process from a ten-year evaluation focused on the accomplishments of an institution's past decade to a forward-focused process examining what an institution is striving to accomplish in the next five years. Modern accreditation examines the current and future capabilities and capacities of an institution in the context of its mission, purpose, and direction. The Standards for Accreditation define how a good institution behaves and provides the criteria to focus improvement efforts that will lead to growing learners, teachers, and leaders.

In reality, modern accreditation is a continuous improvement process. Every five years, the institution formally engages the Standards for Accreditation to reflect and examine its progress towards its desired future as expressed through its mission, purpose, and strategic direction.

Cognia's purpose driven, strategic process is the most widely used continuous improvement process in the world.

Cognia Performance Accreditation and the Engagement Review

This report contains the findings of the Engagement Review Team (the Team). The findings of the Team are organized in five sections: Cognia Performance Standards, Observations, Assurances, Insights from the Review, and a Summary of Findings that includes Noteworthy Practices and Areas for Improvement.

Accreditation is pivotal to leveraging education quality and continuous improvement. Using a set of rigorous research-based standards, the accreditation process examines the whole institution—the program, the cultural context, and the community of stakeholders—to determine how well the parts work together to meet the needs of learners. Through the Cognia Accreditation Process, highly skilled and trained Teams gather firsthand evidence and information pertinent to evaluating an institution's performance against research-based Cognia Performance Standards. Using these Standards, Teams assess the quality of the learning environment to gain valuable insights and target improvements in teaching and learning as well as the operation of the institution.

To build a comprehensive evaluation of your institution, our experts gain a broad understanding of institution quality through a review of documented evidence, formal and informal observations, and community feedback. Using the Standards as a framework, the Team provides valuable guidance which will help to focus your institution's improvement journey.

Assurances

Assurances are requirements that accredited institutions must meet. The Assurance statements are based on the type of institution, and the responses are confirmed by the Accreditation Engagement Review Team. Institutions are expected to meet all Assurances and are expected to correct any deficiencies in unmet Assurances.

#	ASSURANCES.	YES/NO

Evaluations of Institution Analyses

Cognia expects institutions to use a systematic process to collect data and information using quality instruments, then analyze and synthesize that information to arrive at findings. From the findings, Cognia expects institutions to develop, prioritize, and implement theories of action that will sustain high performing areas and lead to improvement in underperforming areas.

Cognia requires institutions to complete analyses on selected data sources. Each analysis is evaluated using rubrics aligned to the main activities within the analysis process.

Performance Standards Evaluation Results

Accreditation is based primarily on the evaluation of evidence that reflects an institution's ability to meet the expectations as defined by the Cognia Performance Standards. The Performance Standards define the elements of quality that research indicates is present in an effective institution. Accreditation standards provide the guideposts to becoming a better institution. The Engagement Review evaluators apply a four-level rubric to determine the degree to which the institution demonstrates effective practices that reflect the expectations of the standard. The rubric scale is designed to indicate the current performance of the institution.

The rubric is scored from Level 4 to Level 1. Descriptions are provided in the table below.

RATING	LEVEL	DESCRIPTION
*	4	Demonstrating noteworthy systematic and systemic practices producing clear results that positively impact learners.
*	3	Engaging in practices that provide evidence of expected effectiveness that is reflected in the standard.
*	2	Developing or improving practices that provide evidence that effort approaches desired level of effectiveness.
*	1	Reflecting areas with insufficient evidence and/or limited activity leading toward improvement.

Culture of Learning Standards

A good institution nurtures and sustains a healthy culture for learning. In a healthy culture, learners, parents, and educators feel connected to the purpose and work of the institution as well as behave in alignment with the stated values and norms. The institution also demonstrates evidence that reflects the mission, beliefs, and expectations of the institution (e.g., student work; physical appearance of the institution; participation in institution activities; parents' attendance at institution functions).Keys to A Culture of Learning

A healthy culture is evident where:

- Stakeholders are actively engaged and supportive of the institution's mission
- Learners' academic and non-academic needs and interests are the focal point
- Stakeholders are included and supported

Leaders cultivate and sustain a culture that demonstrates respect, fairness, equity, and inclusion YOUR RATING and is free from bias.

LEVEL DESCRIPTION 4 - Leaders consistently model the attributes and implement practices that shape and sustain the desired institution culture, clearly setting expectations for all staff members. Leaders and professional staff members 4 consistently implement ongoing practices, processes, and decision making that embody the values of respect, fairness, equity, and inclusion and are free from bias. 3 - Leaders regularly model the attributes and implement practices that shape and sustain the desired institution culture, clearly setting expectations for all staff members. Leaders and professional staff members 3 routinely implement ongoing practices, processes, and decision making that embody the values of respect, fairness, equity, and inclusion and are free from bias. 2 - Leaders occasionally model the attributes and implement practices that shape and sustain the desired institution culture, clearly setting expectations for all staff members. Leaders and professional staff members 2 sometimes implement ongoing practices, processes, and decision making that embody the values of respect, fairness, equity, and inclusion and are free from bias. 1 - Leaders rarely model the attributes and implement practices that shape and sustain the desired institution

2	2 - Professional staff members receive some resources and assistance based on data and information unique to the individual. Professional staff members periodically receive mentoring and coaching from leaders and peers.

 Professional staff members receive few or no resources and assistance based on data and information unique to the individual. Professional staff members rarely receive mentoring and coaching from leaders and peers.

Leadership for Learning Standards

The ability of a leader to provide leadership for learning is a key attribute of a good institution. Leaders who engage in their own learning while tangibly supporting the learning process for learners and teachers have a significant positive impact on the success of others. Leaders must also communicate the learning expectations for all learners and teachers continuously with consistency and purpose. The expectations are embedded in the culture of the institution, reflected by learners', teachers', and leaders' behaviors and attitudes toward learning. Keys to Leadership for Learning

Leadership for learning is demonstrated when school leaders:

- Communicate expectations for learning
- · Influence and impact the culture in positive ways
- Model and engage in learning while supporting others to do so

Standard 7

Leaders guide professional staff members in the continuous improvement process focused on learners' experiences and needs.

LEVEL DESCRIPTION

Little or no emphasis is placed on non-academic skills important for next steps in learning and for future success. Learning experiences rarely build skills in creativity, curiosity, risk taking, collaboration, or design thinking.

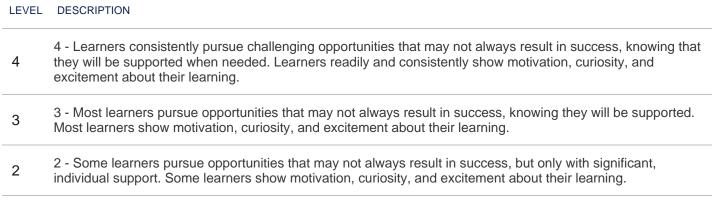

Standard 19

Learners are immersed in an environment that promotes and respects student voice and responsibility for their learning.

LEVEL	DESCRIPTION
4	4 - Conditions across all aspects of the institution promote learners' active discovery and expression of their needs and interests. Learners give input into the instructional and learning activities they pursue and the methods in which they learn. Learners consistently identify their learning targets and monitor their progress.
3	3 - Conditions within most aspects of the institution are learner-centered and promote learners' active discovery and expression of their needs and interests. Learners give input into most of the instructional and learning activities available to them. Learners are frequently involved in identifying their learning targets and monitoring their progress.
2	2 - Conditions within some aspects of the institution are learner-centered and promote learners' active discovery and expression of their needs and interests. Learners have some opportunity for input into the instructional and learning activities available to them. Learners are sometimes involved in identifying their learning targets and monitoring their progress.
1	1 - Learners engage in environments that are heavily instructor-centered. Learners have little or no input into the instructional and learning activities available to them. Learners are rarely expected to monitor their learning progress.

Learners engage in experiences that promote and develop their self-confidence and love of learning.

1 - Most learners primarily pursue opportunities they believe to be risk-free or heavily guaranteed to be successful. Most learners show little motivation, curiosity, or excitement about their learning.

Standard 21

Instruction is characterized by high expectations and learner-centered practices.

LEVEL DESCRIPTION

- 4 Learners engage in instructional activities, experiences, and interactions based on their individual needs

Growth in Learning Standards

A good institution positively impacts learners throughout their journey of learning. A positive impact on the learner is reflected in readiness to engage in and preparedness for the next transition in their learning. Growth in learning is also reflected in learners' ability to meet expectations in knowledge and skill acquisition. Keys to Growth in Learning

Growth is evident when

- Learners possess non-academic skills that ensure readiness to learn
- · Learners' academic achievement reflects preparedness to learn
- · Learners attain knowledge and skills necessary to achieve goals for learning

Standard 24

Leaders use data and input from a variety of sources to make decisions for learners' and staff members' growth and well-being.

LEVEL DESCRIPTION

4 - Leaders consistently demonstrate skill and insight in considering a variety of information, choosing relevant and timely information, and interpreting data. Leaders make intentional decisions by consistently taking into account data and additional factors that have an impact on learners and staff members such as institution history, recent experiences, and future possibilities.

3 - Leaders regularly demonstrate skill and insight in considering a variety of information, choosing relevant and timely information, and interpreting data. Leaders make decisions by routinely taking into account data and additional factors that have an impact on learners and staff members such as institution history, recent experiences, and future possibilities.

2 - Leaders sometimes demonstrate skill and insight in considering and choosing information and interpreting data. Leaders make decisions that occasionally take into account data and additional factors that have an impact on learners and staff members such as institution history, recent experiences, and future possibilities.

Insights from the Review

The evaluators engaged in professional discussions and deliberations about the effectiveness of the processes, programs, and practices within the institution to arrive at the findings of the report. Guided by evidence, the evaluators arrived at findings that will inform your institution's continuous improvement efforts. The findings are aligned to research-based criteria designed to improve student learning and organizational effectiveness.

The findings are organized into narratives around four Key Characteristics critical to the success of any educational institution: culture of learning, leadership for learning, engagement of learning, and growth in learning. The narratives also provide the next steps to guide your institution's improvement journey in its efforts to improve the quality of educational opportunities for all learners. The feedback provided in this Accreditation Engagement Review Report will assist your institution in reflecting on its current improvement efforts and adapting and adjusting your plans to continuously strive for improvement.

Culture of Learning

Collaboration is a shared value throughout Washington School for the Deaf (WSD), and leaders and staff are committed to student academic and non-academic achievement. Survey data and leadership conversations evidence an explicit commitment to the students and to the importance of collaboration between all stakeholders. The school ensures student post-secondary readiness through several programs tied to its Career and Technical Education (CTE) program. WSD is on a growth path in that regard, even though it would like to develop more programs to support students off-site. The school enjoys partnerships with businesses, postsecondary institutions, and alumni who continue to contribute in positive ways. Leaders report that "Immersion in Deaf culture and ASL, in addition to involvement with deaf role models and the Deaf community, is foundational to a Deaf child's identity and sense of empowerment. Teamwork among community partners is essential to student success." As such, leaders and staff strive consistently to ensure that students are engaged with these partners in a positive way. Leaders report that student survey data indicate that some students do not feel comfortable approaching support staff and administration. The school plans to conduct a student focus group to determine the cause and make adjustments as a leadership team. The transparency in the school's self-assessment of this data finding was notable and evidenced its commitment to cultivating student agency. WSD is encouraged to leverage its collaboration processes to work through the noted challenge with some of its students and also to work through some of the themes in the next sections.

Leadership for Learning

Leaders' and professional staff's transparency and self-assessment process evidences their commitment to continuous improvement. Leaders and staff were highly reflective and transparent in their self-assessment for this reaccreditation cycle. They reported that they had implemented a curriculum review cycle as their curriculum was not aligned with the Measures of Academic Progress (MAP). They also initiated a curriculum framework for special needs as a result of analyzing student performance of their special needs learners. Most notable was embedding an anti-bias curriculum in their social studies courses, in addition to the anti-bias work across all content areas. Schools generally do not embed an anti-bias curriculum directly into the focus of social studies or any course which exhibits leaders' and staff's commitment to that work. Although survey data indicate that stakeholders feel like their input is valued, WSD reports that it has not thoroughly engaged stakeholders in the development of its strategic plan. There is a plan to invite more stakeholders into the process. Leaders continually update their operational procedures, including updating the mission and vision through a collaborative process with a cross-section of stakeholders. The level of reflection and focus on improvement is both a strength and a challenge. The strength of WSD in this theme is discussed above: adjusting to student needs in a timely manner with genuine care for each student. The challenge is to ensure that there is not a patchwork of interventions but a holistic and strategic plan that reflects carefully chosen and data-informed actions. WSD regularly aligns its goals and plans to its mission; it might consider being extra diligent in measuring the progress of the goals and adjusting if needed.

Engagement of Learning

Student engagement within the learning environment is effectively managed, but some learning environments are not supporting active learning and risk-taking. The school's reported student achievement data, student survey analysis, and leadership conversations revealed that some of the learning environments are not actively engaging learners. This indicates that instructional approaches and strategies would benefit from a closer analysis of effective and ineffective student engagement strategies. The school focuses on ASL-Bilingual strategies as a primary goal for student success for moving into their post-secondary lives. Teaching staff are trained in ASL-Bilingual strategies through intensive professional development. The school reports, "We continue to discuss how to differentiate instruction and assess student knowledge in various ways in order to take into account deaf students' learning styles." The school initiated project-based learning within the learning environments, which evidenced the staff and leaders' learner-centered mindset. Leaders also report that learners do not have ample opportunity to provide input into the learning activities but plan to initiate those discussions and activities. The CTE program and life-skills instruction in the residential program were reported to actively engage learners. Generally, CTE programs are project-based and rely heavily on learner selfassessment and feedback from professional staff. These programs might be leveraged for pedagogical approaches and instructional strategies. Data processes in place throughout the school would benefit from deeper data dives in the PLCs. The deeper dives, combined with analysis and reflection on these data results and trends, would be to target strategies to modify instructional practice. The aim, therefore, of modifying instructional practices would be to encourage students' growth mindset and to nurture their passion for learning.

Growth in Learning

The school utilizes data to assess instructional programs and organizational conditions; however, the majority of the schools' goals are in the initiation phase and consequently have not yet been closely monitored for impact on student achievement. The Academic Leadership Team uses a comprehensive approach to schoolwide data analysis to assess programs and operations of the school. The leadership team was transparent about the school's challenges and has implemented support structures such as PLCs, release time for curriculum planning, an instructional support consultant, and programs to support CTE. Staff survey data indicate that leaders are respected and supportive. The survey data also indicate that they are involved in decisions. While the leadership team strives to create a culture of inquiry, the deeper inquiry as a staff about the effectiveness of the school goals is in the beginning stages, as evidenced by the SIP goal language. The professional development plan evidenced topics such as mandated training, program support training, DEI, and collaborative assessment scoring. All of these are important and necessary, but missing was evidence of inquiry-based discussions about the root causes of some of the data findings. It is, therefore, crucial that the school evaluates the effectiveness of its goals as they are implemented for their impact on student learning. The key question is, "How do we know if these programs are effective and directly impact student learning?" With support that was reported in survey data, the leadership team is poised for a deeper dive into program evaluation. Moving forward, it is suggested the school continue to monitor all initiatives with a focus on the direct impact on learner achievement. Reviewing and analyzing the implementation of successful programs like the CTE program could serve as a model for evaluating the effectiveness of other programs. The school is poised for this work as it is collaborative, has a strong desire to improve student outcomes, and is committed to students' academic and non-academic achievement.

Summary of Findings

The review process focused on establishing evidence of effective practice and performance of the institution in relation to the accreditation standards.

Noteworthy Practices

In conducting the review, the team identified Noteworthy Practices that reflect significant areas of strength in the work of the institution. Although there are numerous examples of the institution's level of quality, the recognition of Noteworthy Practices reflect the greatest strengths of the institution.

1 Leaders and staff demonstrate strong commitment to student academic and non-academic needs through their continuous improvement mindset. Stakeholder survey results and formal and informal conversations comprehensively supported this finding. WSD engages in continuous improvement not just as a practice but as a foundational value.

Areas for Improvement

Using information collected and reviewed, the team identified the following Areas for Improvement that will help the institution improve. The Areas of Improvement will be revisited when the institution conducts Cognia's Progress Review.

1 Monitor and evaluate all initiatives for direct impact on learner achievement, including the curriculum alignment process.

Standard 25 Standard 12

RATIONALE When schools closely monitor and evaluate initiatives, programs, and curricula, they can make informed instructional changes that impact learner achievement.

2 Analyze current successful active learning environments and synthesize the findings from the contextual analysis to identify common patterns, effective practices, and emerging trends in active learning that can be implemented across all learning environments.

Standard 18 Standard 19

By systematically analyzing current successful active learning environments, staff can emulate andRATIONALEimplement engaging and effective learning experiences that promote student agency, critical thinking, and deeper understanding.

Accreditation Status and Index of Education Quality®

Cognia will review the results of the Accreditation Engagement Review to make a final determination concerning accreditation status for your institution based on these findings. Cognia provides the Index of Education Quality (IEQ) as a holistic measure of overall performance.

Your Institution's IEQ	SCORE	DESCRIPTION
312	Below 220	An IEQ score below 220 indicates that the institution has several Areas for Improvement and should focus their improvement efforts on those areas and the related Standards and/or Assurances. The institution will be required to present evidence of improvement to Cognia within one year through a Progress Review. Additional Progress Reports may be required if satisfactory improvement is not achieved.
	220 - 300	An IEQ in the range of 220-300 suggests the institution some Areas of Improvement and may include one or more Noteworthy Practices.
	Above 300	An IEQ of 300 and above indicates the institution meets Cognia for expectations for accreditation that includes one or more Areas Improvement as well as one or more Noteworthy Practices. Institutions must address the Areas for Improvement and provide evidence of actions taken and results to Cognia in a required Progress Review due two years following the review. Additional Progress Reports may be required if satisfactory improvement is not achieved.

Your Next Steps

Accreditation is a continuous improvement process. The Engagement Review provides independent, objective guidance in relation to the Performance Standards and the institution's improvement journey. Upon receiving the Accreditation Engagement Review Report, the institution is expected to implement the following steps:

- Review and share the findings in this report with stakeholders.
- Use the findings from the report to guide and strengthen your institution's improvement efforts.
- Celebrate the successes noted in the report.
- Continue the improvement journey.
- Report to Cognia on your progress toward improvement.

Evaluator Roster

The Engagement Review Team is a group of professionals with varied backgrounds and professional experiences. All Lead Evaluators and Engagement Review Team members complete Cognia training and eleot certification to ensure knowledge and understanding of the Cognia tools and processes. The following professionals served on the Engagement Review Team:

TEAM MEMBER NAME	BRIEF BIOGRAPHY
Gina Ottinger	Gina Ottinger has been part of the educator community for 40 years.
Gina Ottinger Lead Evaluator	She retired as a principal from the Anchorage School District, where she served in comprehensive and alternative secondary (7-12 grades) school communities for 27 years. Ms. Ottinger's career included extensive experiences developing and implementing change initiatives, working with disengaged at-promise youth, and serving as an appointee to district policy development committees. When Ms.Ottinger retired in 2010, she was invited to join the University of Alaska, Anchorage (UAA) Educational Leadership (EDL) program as an adjunct. She was consequently hired as an assistant professor in the program, where she worked with pre- service and in-service state educational leaders for eight years. She continues to adjunct for the EDL program at UAA. Ms. Ottinger has been involved with national and international district-level and school-level accreditation engagement teams, both as a team member and team lead with AdvancED and then Cognia since 2014 Ms. Ottinger is now the Regional Director for Cognia in Alaska and Hawaii and a Regional Accreditation Evaluator for the Pacific Region. Ms. Ottinger is a doctoral candidate at Fielding Graduate University in the Leadership for Change program with a concentration in Organization Development.
